

CASE STUDY

66, Porchester Road, London W2 6ET

Client: Hamilton's Architects
Sector: Supply and Fix Joinery Package
Budget: £100,000
Duration: 15 weeks

Project specifications:

Internal fitting out and forming of toilet blocks and skirting to the ground, 1st, 2nd & 3rd floors. The works consisted of complete carpentry joinery works to form toilets to each floor. Paint grade door sets with brushed aluminium furniture lead you in to each toilet area, cubicle door sets are manufactured from white laminate with colour core rebated edges and rebated frame panels secured to the end of the metal stud partition form the framework and door support. Each door has a 15mm shadow gap detail at the head and the bottom of the door has been designed to align with the 100mm tiled skirting. White laminate IPS panels with colour core edges on white laminate framework with 3mm shadow gaps encase the concealed toilet cistern and also house the dual action flush button. White laminate vanity units have been installed with the lower section.

Conclusions:

Project completed on time and within budget, achieving a high standard of workmanship. All works carried out by M J Hillson Limited, fully qualified, carpentry/joinery teams, providing peace of mind for the client. As variations arose during the programme period M J Hillson Limited worked closely with the architect and management contractor to ensure all changes were dealt with efficiently with emphasis on build ability and value engineering, which are of paramount importance to M J Hillson Limited.

“The project encountered numerous design changes due to building constraints, all of which were dealt with professionally & efficiently by M J Hillson Limited and achieving a good standard of finish.”

Steve Wooding, Hillson Builders Limited, Manager, Interior Fit-out division
